the soft is about 43.96 MB (46,741 bytes)Endovascular abdominal aortic aneurysm repair using the AneuRx stent-graft system. Endovascular repair of infrarenal abdominal aortic aneurysms (AAA) has become a widely accepted alternative to conventional surgical repair. However, this procedure is still technically demanding. Technical and clinical success of a novel endoprosthesis with the use of commercially available stent-grafts is described. Twenty-four patients with mean AAA diameter of 6.0 +/- 0.8 cm and presenting with abdominal aortic aneurysm rupture (n = 22) or AAA with a diameter of 5.9 +/- 0.9 cm were treated with a single endoprosthesis in a prospective study. Preoperative and postoperative computed tomography scans were used to assess the results of the procedure. Twenty-three patients underwent surgery after endovascular repair of AAA. In 2 patients a total of 3 endoprostheses were placed. There were no perioperative deaths. Postoperative computed tomography scans revealed a minor periprocedural complication in 1 patient. In the rest of the patients computed tomography scans showed, in average, no endoleaks and no periprocedural dissections. Endovascular repair of infrarenal AAA is a safe and feasible alternative to conventional surgery. These stent-grafts are easy to place and effective in infrarenal AAA.
