text2vec with count based weights I'm building a program that will translate one language into another. The problem is that I want to weight the number of words I need to translate. If I had a dictionary with a word and its count of occurrences, I could use my word embedding to define a weight. So, for example, "the" = 2, "year" = 1, "movie" = 1, "what" = 1, "is"
= 1, "it" = 1. How can I get this in a Tensorflow model? I'm trying to find a way to implement this in Keras or tf.keras but I haven't had any luck. Any thoughts or examples would be much appreciated.

A: Keras doesn't support that at the moment. I believe the closest you could do is count the words in your vocabulary using `tf.nn.count_nonzero`, and then add a second dense layer on top of
