An attorney for a South Florida man charged with misdemeanor battery after he allegedly punched his girlfriend in a Kissimmee mall parking lot is demanding that the charge be dismissed. Frederick Adebutu, 33, was arrested on Aug. 11 after shopping at the Wal-Mart shopping center near the Hwy 27 exit in the east Kissimmee area, according to an arrest report. The victim told police that while she was in the passenger seat of her vehicle waiting to leave the parking lot, Adebutu got into the vehicle and "started punching her in the head and chest with closed fists," the report says. The woman told police that she was afraid for her safety because Adebutu was "very intoxicated and he started to get out of the vehicle yelling obscenities at her," according to the report. Police said during their investigation they learned that Adebutu had been drinking all day and had provided a breath sample that tested positive for alcohol. Adebutu's attorney, Gregory Reyes, said Wednesday that his client "is a peaceful person" and a strong family man. "The whole thing is just a horrible misunderstanding," he said. "He's a very responsible, law-abiding person. There's been no other incidents with him. He has a great job. I'm totally confident that this will be dismissed." Bail was set at $1,000, but Adebutu posted a cash bond and was released from jail that day, court records show. Reyes said Adebutu's wife didn't know anything about the incident, according to her attorney, Doug Heslop, who said Thursday that his client is out of jail and the charges will be dropped. He said the case has "no merit," adding, "It was an over-aggressive response by law enforcement to what they perceived was an alleged victim who was not being aggressive to him. "There was no intent to harm the woman or any of the mall patrons," Heslop added. Adebutu's next court date is set for Oct. 5. Always use a portable irrigation system, no matter what the season is.
