Q: Use only one of multiple "required" attributes in html form Is it possible to use only one of multiple controls in a HTML form, but still have the display when the required field is not included in the form? The use case is that I want to have a drop down menu with a list of countries, and a label with a message that when the user changes the selected country from the drop down the label will change to something else. But I do not want to make the label required because not all countries have available values. United States Canada Spain United Kingdom Choose a Country I can accomplish what I'm after using this: United States Canada Spain United Kingdom Choose a Country Please choose a Country `$("#myDropDown").change(function() { if ($("#myLabel").text() == "Please choose a Country") { $("#myLabel").text("Choose a Country"); $("#my`

Fezzik changes the names of all files in a directory by replacing a substring of the name of the file (or the contents of the file) with another string (its replacement). This can be used to dynamically rename whole directories of files, or all the files in a directory; or in conjunction with an alternative application to safely change file names. Please visit the website at Installing Fezzik: Fezzik works on Windows 95, 98, ME, NT, 2000, XP, and Windows NT-based operating systems. You will not need to install it on a system with an MSCore or AppCore. At the time of writing, there are no binaries for Microsoft Corp. Windows CE or Windows for PDA/mobile devices. Please check with your system manufacturer for a guide on downloading and installing Fezzik. About Fezzik: Fezzik is freeware (at the time of writing), which means there are no restrictions or copyright-related issues. If you use Fezzik, then please consider donating to the author. There is a link on his home page for donations. You can also see the donate information in the source code (especially Look up Line 11). Incorporate the standard file renamer with an editor for easier re-naming. Rename all files in the current directory, then save the changes. During the next save, check each file to see if it was renamed. If it was, just go ahead and save, and your text editor will automatically open and offer to save. If it wasn't renamed, check the files to make sure they actually exist in the directory, then go back and make the necessary changes.
