What's New In Portable SimpleTimer?

Portable SimpleTimer is a handy, yet reliable app for counting down time. The application notifies you whenever the time runs out. Additionally, it runs independent of your system or time zone. Capture important time events The app is extremely simple to use. Simply Start the timer when you need to start and end it when you no longer need it. The app automatically adds 5 mins to your timer when the timer runs out. To prevent this, you can prevent the timer from automatically adding extra time. You can easily stop or restart the timer. Simply press the corresponding button on the main window. Captures time intervals Additionally, the app allows you to capture time intervals. You can do this by entering the start and end times. Cross-platform support This program is designed to run on most Windows platforms, and it has cross-platform support for all Windows platforms. The app will automatically work on all the majority of Windows platforms that you have installed on your computer. Start a timer Simply click on the Start button and the timer will begin. Select the number of minutes you wish to start. Start a new timer To start a new timer, simply click on the New button. You can enter the number of minutes you wish to have for the timer. End a timer End a timer by clicking on the End button. When using the End button, it will automatically subtract the number of minutes you entered when starting the timer. If you wish to end the timer immediately, simply press Ctrl-x. If you wish to subtract a specified time, simply enter that time on the Timer Start field. This is the first reliable timer I have used. The interface is simple, and does not require much extra effort. Plus, it includes alarms and messages at certain time intervals, which I like. dmyk made some improvements to the design of this app. This version fixes the bug that caused the timer to start at 0 minutes before the designated timer time. If you are using the previous version, you will need to re-calculate your timed events (such as walks, runs, flights, etc.) as the timer has been changed. As dmyk fixed the above issue and also improved the design of the application, it now displays the countdown timer in a more user-friendly and suitable manner. dmyk also added a New Window feature, which you can use to jump back to a countdown window from anywhere on your desktop. I haven't personally
