This unusual sans-serif typeface was designed by Joshua Darden and released in 2006 by Darden Studio. It comes in a huge variety of 70 styles and . The font is based on glyphs (generated using a glyph generation algorithm) that can be used to create text. Each glyph represents one word, which may or may not have a meaning, depending on how it is used in the text. Although not a printable font, it is still an acceptable solution for use on websites, applications, or advertisements.
