"We are very excited to announce Fifa 22 Cracked Version as the first title to use HyperMotion Technology," said William Morrison, senior producer at EA SPORTS. "The unprecedented accuracy of the new animation and player intelligence technologies, combined with the incredible game footage and graphics of this year's FIFA Ultimate Team Mode, will allow fans to truly experience the most realistic football video game on the market." New Player Types and Improved Interaction Eight new, fully customizable player types provide more control over how players look and move on the pitch. An all-new engine and animation system underpin the reworked physics and gameplay of this year's game. Improved player movement and collision physics add more authenticity to gameplay, particularly with goalkeeper movement and goal conversions. A new playmaker system allows players to improve their set-pieces by giving them to more players. Improved control over defenders and goalkeeper reactions bring player-led strategy to a new level of authenticity. New Defender Types There are now four entirely new defender types on the pitch: Hitting Center Back (HCB), Hitting Center Forward (HCF), Screening Defender (SD) and Reading Defender (RD). These new types improve the accuracy of your defensive tactics by giving you more control over how your players position themselves on the pitch. FC In HCF and SD positions, players close and open to a defensive line, but run based on more natural running mechanics, which gives them a very lifelike movement when they play the ball. When they move between line breaks, the player gains greater control and momentum. Defender positioning skills directly affect positioning results with the ball, as they can better read their opponents' movements. SC In RD, defenders adapt to the ball based on more natural running movements to stay in position, adding pace and agility to his positioning. The line playing skills of the player evolve as he reads the game and can anticipate his opponents' movements. Wing In HCB, forward-oriented wingers naturally attack the ball with greater speed and control, and defensive-oriented wingers are more agile, while offering a greater threat from the flanks. Defense can be enhanced by allowing wingers to cover more space while anticipating the opponents' defensive movements. Goalkeeper In FIFA 20, goalkeepers on the ground (Zoom) supported defensive cover by being able to switch between Body Guard (BG
