Make life easier by bringing links, images and text results directly to your tabs using Firefox. When you've found a link that isn't clickable, the extension enables you to simply drag and drop it into the window. When you drag a hyperlink to the right it will open the link in a tab. When you drag a hyperlink to the left it will open the link in a background tab.

Dragging a word mark (e.g. the URL of an image) will open that link in a new tab You can also adjust how far you need to drag to open links, so you can open links even if you have selected text in your current tab Opening a

hyperlink in a new tab is as easy as dragging one to the right or left Drag images from a web page directly to your tabs with a simple drag and drop Drag words from the web page directly to your searches with a simple drag and drop You can also determine the position of links, images and words In the

settings you can enable or disable the move to foreground / background actions

Fire Drag is a great extension for Firefox that enables you to open any link or image that you want, simply by dragging it across the page. If the object is a hyperlink, it can be opened directly instead. With this addon, it's possible to open links as part of a search, as well as perform text searches directly and open the results in a new tab. You can also control the minimum dragging distance that must be exceeded for the action to be performed. When the selection of an object is over the settings button, it's possible to change the default settings and allow Fire

Drag to open anything in a new tab, include links and open search results, or ignore links and only open them directly. Key features: Efficient: No more opening tabs one by one. Drag and drop everything you want to open or search or even perform text searches in a simple drag-and-drop action. Advanced:

---

Control how links are opened and set a minimum dragging distance. Fully customizable: Choose to open a tab directly, open links in the background or foreground tab, open or ignore links in a text search or perform text search in a new tab. Open and load pages in different browser tabs.

---

Maximize ease when locating hyperlinks. The “Open and load pages in different browser tabs” feature allows you to open one web page in Firefox and another in a new tab. For example, you can open pages in different browser tabs to make it easier to share items with colleagues or spread details over a greater area. With this feature, you can open any URL in new tabs; when you do, a small menu appears on the right-hand side. In this list, you'll be able to specify the pages to open, both in the foreground and background tabs. With it, you can make it easier to locate links and access the links, pages, pages, and sites you need most frequently, as well as multiple pages. After you've completed the action, you can load any opened tabs into your current browser tab. This helps you organize all of your tabs. The option is based on your settings; you can configure it to either load all opened tabs in the current tab, or load opened tabs in the background. Key Features 1. Ability to open multiple tabs from an external webpage. 2. Open a single webpage in different tabs, or loads multiple tabs from within a single tab. 3. You can configure

---
