It was impossible to be more or less precise with that when it was created as a stand-alone program. I replaced it with a WIN link and now it works. Update your software and you will also get road names and distance and a built in route planners. It took me a while to figure this out. Windows Live Mail/Moxon 2010 doesn't work. You have to use the "add to windows live mail" the the web interface, delete it, go to your live mail folder and select the items by hand and it worked. The "add to windows live mail" is in the program and if you don't have it, you will get nothing. so it's a dumb program

I can start a vehicle and it will stay there, but if I switch to a different computer, the vehicle will vanish. Drivers are not able to send the data after this happens. What's New in the ITN Converter?

It is an easy to use, intuitive program designed to aid users in creating and editing trips and routes. It is quite simple to work with, regardless of the user's skill level, since it doesn't require special knowledge. ITN is not in the habit of making many changes to its interface, and in fact, has not made any major changes for several years now. However, ITN continues to be a solid application, with solid maps and solid support for the features it offers, and has even added some new features over the years, such as route preview, trip history, and choosing various map types. The last major change was made in the late '90s, when the free version was created. The free version offers several features not found in the paid version, such as the ability to upload an entire route for conversion. It will generate two trips - one containing the original route, and one containing the backup route. The backup route comes in handy in case you lose the original file. There are several problems with the free version. First of all, it will not allow you to create the backup route file if you are not using that area of the world. In addition, there is no trip history, and you cannot select the map type you wish to export. Finally, a new version of ITN was released in 2013, and it does not support this software.
10/25/09 Thus far, I've had some success with the JoltView XE for viewing the contents of the JoltView Mini. I can view the contents of the Mini (including settings), but am having a difficult time viewing the map itself (which is the feature I was most excited about initially). I've tried two methods, with the same result - no success. To view the contents of the Mini, I log in to the JoltView site using my JoltView account, then log in using the same login credentials to JoltView XE. This appears to work as expected, at least in the sense that I can view the contents of the Mini in JoltView XE. When trying to view the Map Viewer (I refer to this as the Mini-Map Viewer because it looks like the view I'm currently using) through JoltView XE, I get the following error message: Connection failed: Server returned an error: 500 Server error Googling this error message is somewhat of a crapshoot.
