What's new in Intern Pursuit Game:

grew out of the artilleries at the middle of the 19th century, when the cartridges were loaded at the breech, together with the bullets, with powder, and case, in one and the same metallic basin; the blower being fixed at the other end of the basin. Those machines were accomplished in many tences, each one designed to load an exclusive calibre. These machines, invented and developed by MM. Minolas & De Caux, were also applied to the automatic drawing of muskets, loaded at the breech or behind, and were the first to bear the name of _cartouche_. For twelve years they competed successfully for this commercial application, and for the precision of their adjustment. A cigar store in France, numbering about twenty thousand in number, has an annual interest of five or six hundred thousand francs. Besides making them themselves, they import almost all the tobacco used in France. These employes are usually young, active, robust, fresh, and healthy. To be able to understand the importance of this trade, it must be remarked that it is one of the most largely sustained trades in the contemporary world, and that according to the calculation of another capitalist, one fifth of the world's production is employed in the manufacture and distribution of tobacco. It is true that, of all the industrial classes, it is the most flourishing, and that in it their activity is considered the noblest offering to the social organization. Some time ago a tip-topper, called by his predecessors a prodigy, appeared among them, that was almost inexplicable. We will not disguise that, among his advantages, he offered no novelty in his performances; for all the important occupations were completed in as short a time, and he did not exceed them in number, activity, or intelligence. The reason he had won such a reputation, was that he has awaited from the beginning, the moment of an execution, on the place of his labor, and that it has been the only one for him. The establishment having only one other machine with which he alone competed, he had immediately won the empire of all the workers. This
