LTweet is a Twitter client for Windows! LTweet gives you a place to store your Tweets in a very clean and simple interface. You can check your Twitter Stream, follow your friends, your followees, and, most important, your friends. LTweet Features: Spam protection - If a Tweet that is sent to your Twitter account is marked as spam, LTweet will remove it from the client. You will only see your tweets again by deleting the content of the application's db file. Tag filtering - If a tweet is tagged with one of your tags, LTweet shows you a pop-up and tells you about that tweet. Advanced search - It's easy to search through Twitter. Using the advanced search, you can find your people by keywords, location, time and by following your friends, so you can easily follow a person. Update - LTweet doesn't stop with retrieving tweets. Every time there is a new tweet, LTweet runs an Update script and updates the textboxes. Auto click - If you want to read Tweets on your home feed, you only need to click on the "auto click" icon in your toolbar. Filtering - The status updates of Twitter users can be filtered according to their category. Beautiful presentation - LTweet gives you the possibility to choose from a whole range of beautiful presentation templates. Customize - LTweet allows you to customize almost all of the options. LTweet was reviewed by Abdul Faziz, last updated on September 13th, 2010. Male attention is a complex phenomenon that involves the ability to detect and recognize sexual cues from the environment. Previous studies have focused on the effect of sexual images on attentional processing in women and have shown that these stimuli increase attentional processing. Although these studies are important in understanding the sexual experience of women, there are significant deficits in our knowledge of how male sexual attention works. The goal of this project is to address this deficit in knowledge. The project involves three phases. Phase 1 involves investigation of the attentional effects of self-reflected images of potential sexual partners in men. The goals of this phase are to 1) identify the specific parameters that are associated with self-reflected sexual stimuli that increase attentional processing, 2) provide a foundation for understanding gender differences in the processing of sexual cues, and 3) demonstrate the utility of self-reflected sexual images in the prediction of
