The second game in the ELDEN RING series, it inherits the design philosophy and play style of the first game and has over 30 expansions. A game made for both comfort and convenience, the starting level and difficulty is decided by you, allowing players to enjoy a game that is both easy and challenging. The key elements are fully covered by the balance system, including the hard-to-search-for class difference between the mercs and warriors, the differences in the advanced skills, and the differences in the actions of characters with different stats (such as "Anima"). Also, players can enjoy a game with no stress, thanks to the lack of the random element in the character creation process. The first game in the series, created and directed by KUROISIS, was released in summer 2015 and has received excellent critical reception. The design philosophy, where "a game is more than just a game," aims to put more attention on a game with great value. The action RPG, like the first game, has a high degree of freedom in the world (far greater than any other RPG), letting you have a wonderfully immersive play experience. Also, the second game inherits the first game's character development system, the concept of freedom, and the first game's narrative, which has been deemed by fans to be enjoyable. ABOUT KUROISIS KUROISIS is a video game development team with 5 years of experience in the industry, having developed several games including the first action RPG in the world. The first game, created and directed by KUROISIS, was launched in summer 2015 and received the 2018 Game Anime Best Visual Quality Award (Finalist). The design philosophy, where "a game is more than just a game," aims to put more attention on a game with great value. KUROISIS is bringing a new vision to action RPGs and developing games that stand out by using the official external direction, the values of the company, and the knowledge and abilities of their staff. Their philosophy of open future, where various genres can be blended together, is bringing us back to the roots of action RPGs. A game created by putting the player's interests first, they are aiming to utilize the excellent action RPG genre and bring about a new action RPG that is fun for people to enjoy. © 2015, KUR

Undershadowt The darkest of all shadows. The voiceless energies of the machine driving these lush environments shudder through every line and fixture in sight. The weapons you see are of pure metal. Made by them. The corporation. The agency. The system. They are all in unison on the roads ahead. The system has broken, the shadows have moved, and this is a new world. This - this is the frontier of consumption. We are the only ones left. The machines still run. They've been locked in combat from the beginning, we've been there. We survived the apocalypse. Take dominion over the machines as you see fit, and consume their power. Remember: this is THE END. No one will come. NO ONE WILL HELP. It's far too late to help. The machines will decide. Continue or, face the ravages of what's to come. ]]> Beloved Assassin 21 May 2017 03:28:03 +0000 By Lord Nefarious ShadowThe Lord of Shadows. By night he clouds the moon and blinds the stars. By day he sprays us with his ice-water stench to distract us from his growing strength. He whispers to the winds and sways the wild currents. He spies upon us in the darkest of shadows. He waits and watches the world he has created. He loves us. He hates us. But his greatest power is in our own indecision. We live in a cage of fighting factions, unsure what our intentions are. Every day we are drawn closer to the beast that reigns us. Every day we are offered powers far beyond our meager abilities and every day he whispers to us
