Controls: - Left - Open/close door, use flashlight - Right - Turn on LED light, use map, use bear repellent - Up - Start menu, fast travel - Down - Speak to the guard Story: Having escaped from prison, a man (?) ends up in a small cubicle where a light shines right on him. The light is slowly getting brighter, and the man starts seeing things. He's trapped in a dark room, with no way out! If you like video games, your eyes probably bug out a bit when they see a review for 8/10. That's not an average review. No, it's not the best review, nor is it the worst. It's a perfect score. Seriously, it's right in the middle. That 8/10 is about as good as a developer can get. 2018 1st Place - The Best of VR Arcade "A free-to-play, social, open world, action-adventure game with a taste of Bizarro World." If you've never played anything with a kitchen sink or ascii art, you are in for a treat. We love to explore planets, but no one would choose to live on one of these planets. Ok. It probably looks pretty and exciting, but in reality, you are stuck on a planet that looks like hell. Literally. There are also a few flaws (more on that below). The fact that we fell in love with this game before being given a problem statement makes us think that the entire game could have been completed in an hour or less. But let's start with the good. If you're looking for a good, fun Bizarro World theme, this game has it. Everything you see and everything you do in this game is also seen in this world, no matter how crazy it looks. A baby riding a dragon? It's actually a baby dragon! The main character shows up as a 5-foot tall humanoid with an unfunny stick figure head (just like us). The rooms are designed so you can just climb up to the ceiling and even on to different planets, level by level. You can flip the ceiling upwards to reach the next level, but the first part of every level is a small-ish lobby and a water area. You also have the option of using the bike you start out with in the lobby. There are a handful of courses that you can

"We are committed to never making a game that will ship with a trial or demo. We are committed to making each of our games as great as possible in the first place. This is a game we have envisioned since 2009." – Richard Cobbett, Lead Designer of Europa Universalis IV The Colonies are fighting a ruthless war against an enemy they call the Cylon. In response, a fleet of Colonial warships have been deployed to the fringes of the Colonies. These ghost ships have been on patrol, waiting in a far flung corner of the Colonies for years now. And they've been waiting for a reason. For years. This story is the story of our ghostly fleet. This story is the story of our ghostly crew. Players take control of a capital ship from the Galactica. They will explore a massive, open-ended campaign, take part in epic, full-featured combat, construct a virtual empire, forge an alliance, and finally put their ghosts to rest. Key Features: HUMAN - A real-time strategy game set in the far future with a similar feel to the Age of Empires and Rise of Nations series. STORY - You are in command of an elite crew on one of six battleships during an epic interstellar war. FUTURE TRAVEL - Each mission in the campaign is a different island of the Colonies. You can explore anywhere on the planet with freighters and airliners. PARTICIPATION - Join a squadron and fight alongside friends in multiplayer battles or team up with them in the Fleet Admiral's Wars. DEVELOPMENT TEAM:
