How to install Windows 8/7/8: Windows XP: Linux: To have a backup, you can save it to your computer, but this will become difficult if you have an upgrade or addition to the operating system, because they will wipe out your device's existing backup. If you want to save your device or to keep any files, you can save it to a USB memory stick using the Windows Backup utility. You can do this by using the Time Machine backup feature. In the open the Windows Backup console, right-click on the partition and select Connect to the following devices. You can find the folder of the backup on the USB memory stick. You can also use a free application such as Tuxera Backup (Windows) or RoboCopy (Linux) to backup the contents of your device. - The BadUSB Backdoor /Hacktool
