For players, "HyperMotion Technology" means that the "natural movements of players are more believable than ever before", according to a press release. In addition to one-to-one player animations, FIFA also features a new "responsive dribbling" AI. This makes the virtual soccer players' reactions more comparable to those in the real game. "It's common knowledge that passing is everything in football," said Craig Beason, FIFA creative director at EA Sports, in a statement. "Being able to have all the players act with that natural believability in the heat of a fast-paced match and reacting as your mates would have done is the key to being able to feel what they feel." Improved Player Creation EA Sports is also switching up how players are created in Fifa 22 Activation Code. This year, players will have the ability to create their own footballer from within the game, instead of using the traditional in-game creation system. This new system is being called "Immersive Player Creation." Two ways to go about the process include creating the player yourself, and crafting the perfect player using tools and attributes from other players in-game. These two ways allow players to have greater control over the player they create. Player Attributes can also be customized based on how the player will make decisions while on the pitch.

Improved Player Controls In the past, player controls have centered around keybinds and menu commands, which could sometimes lead to players in a position never intended. With improvements in controls, the ability to pick a formation has become more intuitive. Within the controls menu, players can see the formation selected and see the skills and attributes picked for the players. There's also more control over each individual player's skill sets, allowing players to be more tailored to their own style and roles. Players can go into the "Creator Studio" within the game to create their own player. Instead of just simple attributes to choose from, players can create their own unique talents and attributes, giving players more freedom in the way they play the game. The ability to craft a player from scratch also opens up the player customization to pre-existing modes such as the Ultimate Team and FIFA Ultimate Team. Improved Player Behaviors When it comes to how the virtual players act in a game, EA Sports is bringing more realism to the game. Players are now able to use more
