Virtual Stock Trader Download [Latest]

The Virtual Stock Trader Program was developed to let you train yourself to be a day trader without the risk of losing real money. This program provides real time data on the NASDAQ 100 Index. The program lets you trade in three different modes:

- Day Trading Mode: simulate day trades
- Practice Go long or Go short mode: simulate going long or short
- Go long or short in real time mode: trade stocks in real time

Go long in the Day Trading Mode: Play the stock trading game in Day Trading Mode. Day Trading Go Long and Go Short You will simulate trading stocks in real time. You can choose how many stocks you trade. For example, you can trade 10 stocks or 5,000 Each trade will involve a single order: buy or sell. You can also chose the level of aggressiveness of your order. You can create alerts that will be sent to you by email when the price of a stock reaches a certain level. For example, you can create an alert that will be sent to you when the price of AAPL increases by 2.00 or when the price of MSFT increases by $5.00. You can create two profiles: one for long and one for short. You can switch between long and short mode at any time. Go Long in the real time mode: Trade stocks in real time Alerts Go short in the real time mode: Trade stocks in real time Alerts Please Note: you can't create alerts in the real time mode because the program will not place limit orders in the real time mode. You can choose to convert your real time trade to a limit trade when you are ready to convert it to real time trading in the next step. Precision Order Entry - FAST This trade mode allows you to determine the level of aggressiveness of your order by adjusting the speed at which your order is executed. You will create a profile where you enter the market by typing in the amount you want to enter the market, whether you want to be aggressive or not and the speed at which the trade should be completed. Setup - You can setup any type of order you want. You can use limit, market or stop orders. You can set the day to start, the quantity of shares and the number of days to define the length of the trading program. ## What's New in the Virtual Stock Trader?

Virtual Stock Trader is a unique trading simulator that allows the trader to practice their craft. If you are looking for an easy to understand, low risk way to try your hand at Stock Trading then you have come to the right place! Virtual Stock Trader's goals are to: □ Provide a user-friendly interface where the trader can quickly become familiar with how stock trading actually happens in the real world. □ Have a feedback system so that the user can see whether their trades are working or not. □ Allow the user to understand how many trades can be executed in a day, and for how many days in a row. □ Provide the trader with a total trading environment where they can practice their trades without having to deal with real world constraints such as brokers, commissions, margin debt, or having to sell the stock (which can cost real money) in order to get back out. □ Produce charts that represent the actual stock trading strategy that is used by the program. □ Enter trades that automatically follow the rules of the market that are used in the program. □ Trade a variety of market scenarios based on real market conditions. When the trader enters a trade the program will automatically assume that the trader is long the stock and has no intention of selling short. The trader enters the order using the software's graphical user interface and the program will automatically execute the order at the best available price (based on the entered order type). The trader may also enter a new stop loss and take profit level during the day in order to adjust the position. When the trader is done with his trades for the day he may simply stop trading, or he may allow the system to continue to trade for him (automated trading system) until he manually intervenes in order to exit. Some of the important features include: □ Stock charts are kept in the background showing the trader the status of his position □ A break even calculator is provided so the trader can see how much money is being made or lost with each trade. □ Ability to make real money trades without risking any of your money. □ Over 500 stocks available for the trader to learn and apply. □ Ability to add any of those stocks to trade with one click. □ Ability to track the program's performance and trade fees charged by the system. □ Ability to trade when market hours are over.
