I need to stop a console application, because when I press the start button, my app does not exist before the run. I use the Application.Exit but it's not good, because it's a console application. How to stop my application and the console when I press the start button? A: Press CTRL-C on the keyboard if you're using Windows. If you're on a *nix platform, you should use Ctrl-Z to stop your process, or Ctrl-C if that doesn't work. A: You could use the answer given by AsVal but if I understand you correctly what you want is: to start the app in such a way that it shows a splash screen to stop it if the application is hidden because the shell closed it and not all UI have been shown yet so that the user can interact with the splash screen. This is a scenario that I faced. It took some time to find a solution. The problem is that there is no way to save the state of the UI. So the solution I used for my scenario is: Create a file with a name .save where the save will be 6d1f23a050
