Nordic Bitcoin payment processor BitPay has recently released additional details about the upcoming release of Bitcoin payments for Nordics countries, including Denmark, Norway, Finland and Sweden. While the existing payment options for the Nordic countries are in place, it appears that the same will be adopted at a more speedy basis with the new solution. The services will be easily available to merchants on each payment processing platform. Also, the solution will provide better customer experience, improved fraud and know your customer (KYC) process and international payments. "BitPay's ecommerce experts, along with Finnish startup and BitPay partner Bitvelab, are establishing a patent-pending, scalable solution to enable merchants to accept payments in bitcoin, as well as offer access to the world's most popular payment method. Merchants can accept bitcoin with a single line of code," said Ricardo Fernandez, CFO at BitPay. The payment processors will be initially focused on the Finnish, Swedish and Norwegian markets while also look towards reveal a specific date for the release in the Nordic countries. While the news doesn't reveal a specific date for the release in the Nordic countries. "Bitvelab already been integrating the ecommerce startup Bitvelab, which is set to provide a payments solution for the Nordic countries. "Bitvelab already has already been integrating the ecommerce startup Bitvelab, which is set to provide a payments of the Nordic countries.
