In this article based on my experience I will try to describe common misconceptions among Spanish property buyers. So, what most often causes confusion among potential buyers and, consequently, confusion and difficulties in the process of buying real estate? As sources of information about the real estate market in Spain, as well as the property purchase procedure, I use: official websites official mailings, forums on the Internet, forums in Spanish, Web-sites of large Spanish real estate companies, Websites of real estate developers, Web sites of major real estate agencies, The sites of public authorities Real estate agency providing services for the sale and purchase of overseas real estate must be licensed. This point must be in the contract. Otherwise, the agency risks to be fined up to 10 000 euros. In this case, the agency must provide the customer real estate sales contract. It must reflect the information about the conditions of the deal, the value of the object, guarantees, etc. In the absence of such a contract the transaction may be challenged. In addition, the sales contract should contain information about the date of sale, the amount of the transaction. It should also specify the conditions of the transfer of rights to the object and the payment. It is also possible to specify the pledge of real estate after approval. The contract of sale must be executed in 3 copies.
